The companies comprising the Capital Group perform the valuation of off-balance items in the following manner:

Tangible assets

Tangible assets are shown at the acquisition price or cost of manufacture less any possible impairment write-offs. Land is not subject to amortization and depreciation.

Fixed assets under construction are presented in the balance sheet at the cost of manufacture less depreciation and impairment write-offs. External financing costs are recognized as period cost in the profit and loss account.

Plant and machinery and other fixed assets are presented in the balance sheet at historical cost less depreciation and impairment write-offs.

Amortization commences once the assets are accepted for use and are amortized according to the principles adopted. Amortization is written off by the linear method by estimating the useful life of a particular asset, i.e.:

- | | |
|-------------------------|--------------------------|
| - buildings | - from 10 up to 20 years |
| - plant and machinery | - from 5 up to 15 years |
| - means of transport | - from 5 up to 10 years |
| - other tangible assets | - from 5 up to 10 years |

Fixed assets under financial lease contracts were recognized in the balance sheet alongside other fixed assets and are subject to depreciation according to the same principles.

Intangible assets

The companies apply the historical cost model to all items within particular types of assets. The (initial) cost less depreciation and impairment write-offs. The method of amortization of intangible assets is analogous to the amortization of tangible assets.

It is assumed that the useful life of intangible assets is not longer than 20 years from the moment at which a particular asset is usable. Amortization of intangible assets is provided on a straight-line basis.

Intangible assets made by an undertaking on its own are not recognized as assets and the outlays on production thereof are debited to the profit and loss account in the year in which they were borne. If events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value of intangible assets may not be recoverable, they are reviewed for any possible impairment.

Patents and Trademark

Patents and trademarks are recognized in the balance sheet at acquisition price less depreciation through the straight-line method for their useful life and less impairment write-offs, if any. The amortization period is 5 years.

Stocks

Stocks are recognized at the lower of acquisition price (or cost of manufacture) and net selling price. Depreciation of stocks down to the net selling price is generally effected through revaluation write-offs, as regards the stocks which have become obsolete. If circumstances which caused the depreciation of stocks cease to exist, an opposite operation is performed, i.e. restoration of the value of the stocks.

The profit and loss account includes:

- book value of stocks sold in the period in which income from sale was credited;
- write-off of stocks to the net selling price in the period in which the write-off was made.

Revaluation write-offs adjust the cost of goods sold.

The FIFO method is applied to all stocks of similar type and purpose.

Loans and receivables

Trade receivables with general maturity period from 30 up to 180 days are recognized at the amount invoiced originally.

Other receivables are recognized at amount due.

Receivables are recognized at nominal value adjusted for relevant revaluation write-offs. Receivables are revaluated allowing for the likelihood of them being paid.

Loans as at the balance sheet date are recognized at adjusted acquisition price and estimated with the use of effective interest rate.

Receivables revaluation write-offs are classified as cost of sales.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash is recognized at nominal value, but the cash deposited in bank accounts includes also capitalized interest added to the bank account balance.

Interest accrued on deposits of the Company Social Benefits Fund increases the Fund, in other cases it constitutes the Company's financial income.

Foreign currencies deposited in the undertakings' currency account and paid out in the year are recognized at the exchange rate on the date of the transaction (at the exchange rate applied by the bank which maintains the account).

Derivative instruments

In order to ensure protection from financial risks connected with changes in exchange rates, forward and option contracts are employed. Derivative instruments are not used for speculation purposes.

Derivative instruments (forwards, options) are entered in the account books as at the execution date at fair value of the value of assets received.

As at the balance sheet date futures are recognized at fair value measured reliably.

Deferred expenditure

The companies of the NG2 S.A. Capital Group recognize deferred expenditure if it pertains to future reporting periods. The companies' deferred expenditure is effected according to the principle of commensurability, which allows to ensure commensurability of income and related costs. This allows to avoid the distortion of the financial results for particular reporting periods.

Minor or irrelevant expenditure, even if it relates to several reporting periods, is not deferred but charged directly to costs when incurred.

The companies recognize accrued expenditure in the amount of probable liabilities relating to the current reporting periods.

Liabilities recognized as accrued expenditure and the principle of its evaluation result from the generally recognized business practice.

Equity

Equity is recognised in the account books broken down by type and according to principles as stipulated by law and the statute.

Equity types:

- share capital of the Company is recognized at the value laid down in the statute and court register;
- capital reserves made up of the surplus of the sale value over the nominal value of shares less the issue costs;
- other capitals due to reclassification of profit or loss brought forward to be covered;
- retained financial result.

Corporate income tax

The mandatory tax burden on financial results comprises the current tax (CIT) and deferred tax.

The current tax is calculated on the basis of the tax-related result for a particular reporting period.

The tax burden is measured on the basis of tax rates in force in a given fiscal year.

Deferred tax is calculated as a tax payable or refundable in the future in relation to the differences between the carrying values of assets and liabilities and related tax values used to calculate the tax base.

Income tax reserve

Deferred tax reserves are established in the amount of income tax to be paid in the future due to temporary differences, i.e. such differences which will result in the increase of the base for estimating the income tax in the future. The reserves are estimated subject to income tax rates in force in the year in which the tax liability arose.

Deferred income tax assets

Deferred income tax assets are established in the amount which will presumably be deducted from income tax with regard to negative temporal differences which will result, in the future, in reducing the income tax base and a deductible tax loss determined in a conservative manner.

Other reserves

The companies of the NG2 S.A. Capital Group establish reserves for:

- anticipated returns and complaints;
- future pension benefits and anniversary awards;
- unused employee leaves;
- pending court proceedings.

The amount with which a reserve is established should be the best estimate of outlays required to meet the present liability as at the balance sheet date. The estimates of the financial result and effect are determined through the judgement of the management of the company, supplemented by experience of similar transactions and - in some cases - reports of independent experts.

Reserves should be reviewed at each balance sheet date and adjusted in order to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer likely that an outflow of resources with economic benefits will be required to meet the liability, then the reserve is released.

A reserve for anticipated returns and complaints concerning goods sold in the last financial year is established as an estimate of an average of returns based on historical data.

With calculations made for several periods and thanks to the experience gained, the Companies calculate the average index of complaints for the previous periods. The variable which indicates any possible returns on sales and which influences the value of any possible complaints expresses the value of income from sales for those months to which the returns apply. The return-on-sales index for the previous months is calculated by dividing the value of returns by income from sales for the period to which a given complaint applies.

A reserve is appropriately adjusted in the next periods by increasing or releasing such a reserve, depending on the income from sales.

A reserve for future pension benefits and anniversary awards is established on the basis of actuarial calculation.

A reserve for unused annual leaves is calculated as the product of all the unused days of an annual leave and the average remuneration per day in the companies of the Capital Group.

Credits and loans

Credits and loans are recognized at acquisition value corresponding to the fair value of cash received less costs connected with obtaining a credit or loan.

Trade liabilities and other

Liabilities include the balance of all liabilities connected with the purchase of goods and services for the operating activities, including the purchase of works from domestic and foreign providers.

Trade liabilities are recognized in the account books at the amount due.

Employee benefits liabilities

Such liabilities include remunerations, social and health insurance, and also liabilities relative to the Labour Fund and the Guaranteed Employment Benefit Fund, the Company Social Benefits Fund.

Income tax related liabilities

Income tax related liabilities include the Company's corporate and personal income-tax related liabilities towards the state budget.

Lease contracts

As of the beginning of a lease contract period the Companies recognize financial lease contracts in the balance sheet as assets and liabilities amounting to the fair value of an item established as at the date of the beginning of the lease contract or amounting to the present value of the minimal lease rent established as at the date of the beginning of the lease contract, provided that it is lower than the fair value. The present value of the minimal rents is calculated with the use of a discounted interest rate being the lease interest rate, if it is possible to determine. Otherwise, the marginal interest rate of the leaseholder is applied. The leaseholder's initial direct costs increase the amount recognized as an asset.

Foreign currency transactions

Initial valuation

Business operations denominated in foreign currencies are recognized in the account books as at the date of their execution at buying and selling rates applied by the bank servicing the companies, as regards the operations of buying and selling currencies and paying liabilities or receivables.

Regardless of the fact whether cash expressed in foreign currency was credited to the company's bank domestic currency account or foreign currency account, it is valued at:

- buying rate of the bank servicing the company if foreign receivables are credited to the account;
- selling rate of the bank servicing the company if foreign currencies are purchased.

Outgoings from the domestic bank account is valued at:

- buying rate of the bank servicing the company if foreign liabilities are satisfied;
- buying rate of the bank servicing the company if foreign currencies are sold.

In the case of:

- importing or exporting goods and materials and investment goods – they are valued at the rate set out in the SAD document (or other valid document);
- importing or exporting services, purchase of rights, and financial assets (shares in other undertakings and securities purchased) – they are valued at the average rate established by the National Bank of Poland as at that date;
- intra-Community transactions – at the average rate established by the National Bank of Poland as at the transaction date (date of issuing of an invoice).

Balance sheet valuation

As at the balance sheet date assets and liabilities, denominated in foreign currencies and recognized in the account books as at that date, are valued at the average exchange rate published by the National Bank of Poland for a particular currency as at that date.

Since 01.01.2007 the Companies apply the accounting method of settling exchange differences.

Events occurring after the balance sheet date

The companies adjust amounts shown in the financial statements to recognize the events that occur after the balance sheet date and which must be adjusted.

The NG2 S.A. Capital Group does not adjust amounts shown in the financial statements to reflect such events occurring after the balance sheet date which are referred to as "requiring no adjustments".

5. Description of factors and events, especially of extraordinary nature, having a material effect on the financial results

In the reporting period no unusual circumstances occurred having a material effect on the financial results.

6. Explanations on the seasonal and periodical nature of the issuer's activity in the presented period

As far as the companies of the NG2 Capital Group, their selling and production activity may be regarded as being of seasonal nature.

The seasonal nature of sales of the NG2 Capital Group is significant as it is the case for the whole clothing and shoe industry. There are two basic periods with the highest sales, i.e. second and fourth quarter annually. Moreover, during the year sales are very much dependent upon weather conditions which may disturb the seasonality schedule, hastening or delaying the better or worse sales periods.

Seasonality of production is a derivative of: 1) seasonality of sales; 2) production profile. CCC Factory specializes in autumn, spring and summer shoes and, therefore, must, in sufficient advance and before the sales peak, produce adequate number of shoes in order to provide branded showrooms with the products. The sales peak is during the first and third quarters, and the period of decreased production and maintenance break usually takes place in July.

Reclassification of comparable amounts

The companies of the Capital Groups changed the business segments reclassifying in 2008:

- cost of sales
- overheads

Previously, cost of sales not directly connected with the cost incurred by own sales outlets was recognized in the “wholesale” segment. In 2008 costs generated by organizational units operating within particular segments were allocated with the use of an allocation key. The costs of the organizational units not linked with the separate segments were included in the unallocated items.

The overheads of CCC Factory Sp. z o.o. were shown in the “wholesale” segment. In 2008 overheads were allocated with the use of an allocation key to the “retail” and “wholesale” segments. Comparable data were presented according to new rules.
